MAJOR POLISH CITIES

Wrocław – the fourth largest Polish city and the capital of Lower Silesia (Dolny Śląsk). Wrocław has a large, magical Old Town, whose unique atmosphere is a result of its rich history and astonishing location. It is situated on several islands that are surrounded by the Oder River and its tributaries. Wrocław is a city of students, known for music and theatre festivals, as well as its bustling nightlife.

Gdańsk – a major Polish seaport. Together with Gdynia and Sopot it forms a metropolis called Tricity (Trójmiasto) with approximately 750,000 inhabitants. It has a beautiful Old Town reflecting its long and turbulent history. It used to be an important Hanseatic city and was owned alternately by Poland and Germany. It is also the city where World War II began and the birthplace of the Polish Solidarity movement (see "Poland after the World War II").

Kraków – the former seat of the royal family and capital of Poland until 1596. Its stunning architecture and treasures of art attract thousands of tourists each year. It is considered the cradle of the Polish science because the first Polish university, the Jagiellonian University, was founded there in 1364. Today, it is an important cultural and academic centre with over 730,000 residents.

Poznań – one of the oldest and largest Polish cities. Thanks to its location on the Paris-Moscow route it has always been an important transport and trade centre. International Trade Fairs have been held there annually since 1925. Today, the city's economic power peaks due to numerous foreign investments. This, together with a great number of universities and research institutes, makes it the second fastest developing city in Poland.

Łódź – the third largest city in Poland in terms of population, located in the centre of the country. In the 19th century it used to be the main industrial power of Poland thanks to its textile industry. Recently, it has been turning into a cultural centre. It is famous for the Łódź Film School where most famous Polish actors, cameramen and directors such as Roman Polanski and Andrzej Wajda learnt their profession. In total, the city has 28 schools of higher education.

Warszawa – the capital of Poland with over 1.7 million inhabitants. It is a business city attracting many Poles in search of education and job opportunities. Thanks to its numerous schools of higher education, it has a vibrant spirit and constitutes an important academic and cultural centre. During World War II, the city was almost completely destroyed. Its present architectural landscape has largely been shaped by the years of communism (exemplified by the Palace of Science and Culture) and its entrepreneurial character (skyscrapers).

Although Poland's landscape is predominantly made up of lowlands, it is also varied enough to cater to the needs of sea, lake and mountain enthusiasts. If you are the mountaineer type, you should go to the south of Poland, where two large mountain chains rise: the Carpathians and the Sudety Mountains. Both ranges are popular as holiday destinations; not only in the summer among hikers, but also in the winter, when snow-covered slopes wait for skiers and snowboarders. From December till March perfect weather conditions and modern skiing facilities attract both beginners and experienced skiers. The favorite holiday resort of Poles is Zakopane in the Tatra Mountains (highest mountain range in Poland). The reason for this is not only the town's multitude of skiing routes and over a hundred ski lifts, but, more importantly, its unique highland atmosphere and an extensive network of cosy guesthouses, luxurious villas as well as rustically-styled restaurants serving typical Polish food. Other popular destinations of winter sports fans are: Szklarska Poręba, Wisła, and Szczyrk, the latter being especially appreciated for its cable railway. If you prefer winter trekking, on the other hand, the Bieszczady range in the very southeast of Poland is where you should head.

Beside winter sports, a typical attraction offered to tourists in Poland off the slope are brisk sleigh rides. Be prepared for an exciting adventure if you get a hot-blooded Polish highlander (góral) to drive your sleighs!

KAROL OLSZEWSKI (1846-1915)

and ZYGMUNT WRÓBLEWSKI (1845-1888)

were the first scholars in the world who liquefied oxygen, nitrogen and carbon dioxide from the atmosphere in a stable state (1883). Olszewski was also the first to liquefy hydrogen, achieving a record low temperature of -225 °C (1884).

MARIA SKŁODOWSKA-CURIE (1867-1934)

was a physicist and chemist famous for her pioneering research on radioactivity. She was the first woman ever to receive the degree of a Doctor of Science and the first female professor appointed at the Sorbonne. To this day, Skłodowska-Curie remains the only woman who received two Nobel Prizes, and the only scientist in history to be awarded two Nobel Prizes in two different fields of study (physics in 1903 and chemistry in 1911).

HENRYK ARCTOWSKI (1871–1958)

was a Polish scientist, oceanographer and Antarctica's explorer whose name has been given to a number of geographical features in Antarctica and Spitsbergen.

MARIAN SMOLUCHOWSKI (1872-1917)

was a pioneer of statistical physics, including fundamental work on the kinetic theory of matter. Smoluchowski proposed the equation of diffusion in an external potential field which bears his name. His investigations concerned also the blue color of the sky as a consequence of light dispersion on fluctuations in the atmosphere. He was passioned to skiing, mountain climbing in the Alps and the Tatra Mountains.

MIECZYSŁAW WOLFKE (1883-1947)

was a physicist, a pioneer in work on X-ray microscopy that helped to lay the foundation for the development of holography. He invented the mercury-cadmiom lamp and discovered two liquid phases of helium and solidification of helium. In the years 1931–1934, Wolfke was Grand Master of the National Grand Lodge of Poland.

JAN CZOCHRALSKI (1885-1953)

"the father of electronics", was a great metallurgist, chemist and inventor of several new research methods and patents, best known from the method of single crystal growing. The worldwide known "Czochralski method" is used in the production of semiconductor wafers. Without his invention, today we would not have computers, television sets, telephones, microwave ovens etc.

STEFAN BANACH (1892-1945)

was a mathematics prodigy who founded one of the most important mathematical fields – functional analysis. He also founded and led the Lwów School of Mathematics to research this branch of mathematics.

KAZIMIERZ MICHAŁOWSKI (1901-1981)

was an archaeologist and Egyptologist who made many discoveries in Egypt, Sudan and Crimea, and founded Nubiology, an archeological science concerned with the scientific study of Ancient Nubia and its antiquities. Today, his work is continued by expeditions of Polish scientists, who have excavated many splendid masterpieces of ancient architecture, art and ceramics, revealing spectacular facts about the ancient reality.

ALFRED TARSKI (1901–1983)

was a logician, mathematician and philosopher who created a semantic theory of truth and the theory of models. He contributed to abstract algebra, topology, geometry, measure theory, mathematical logic, set theory, and analytic philosophy.

HENRYK MAGNUSKI (1909-1978) was a telecommunication engineer and the inventor of the Motorola's (GMC) SCR-300 FM "Walkie-Talkie" radio, popular with American forces in Europe during WW II, and was an American chemist of Polish origin, named "the mother" of Kevlar" – synthetic fiber of exceptional strength and stiffness, developed at DuPont in 1965. Kevlar is a material used in more than 200 applications, including tires, bullet-proof vests, skis, boats, airplanes, cables, fire fighter boots and cut-resistant gloves. The scientist worked for DuPont for forty years and won a number of awards in polymer chemistry, and was fourth woman invited to the U.S. National Inventors Hall of Fame.

AN/CPN-6 Radar Beacon – a microwave device which aided carrier pilots to find their ship during low visibility conditions.

STEPHANIE KWOLEK / STEFANIA CHWAŁEK (1923–2014)

ZBIGNIEW RELIGA (1938–2009) was a cardiac surgeon and the Minister of Health (2005-2007). He was a pioneer in human heart transplantation in Poland. In 2004, together with his team, he obtained a prestigious "Brussels Eureka" award at the World Exhibition of Innovation, Research and Technology for developing an implantable pump for a pneumatic heart assistance system.

SYLWESTER POROWSKI (born 1938) is a physicist who built, with his team, a blue semiconductor laser (2001) with a groundbreaking method, which allows applying the laser in medical diagnostic tests, environmental monitoring and in the production of new generation of televisions, video projectors and various storage media.

ALEKSANDER WOLSZCZAN (born 1946) is an astronomer who found the first evidence for the existence of an extrasolar planetary system and pulsar planets in 1992 (together with Dale Frail).

AGNIESZKA ZALEWSKA (born 1948)

is a Professor at the H. Niewodniczański Institute of Nuclear Physics of the Polish Academy of Sciences in Krakow. For the past 20 years, Poland has been actively involved in international programmes supporting cross-border cooperation in commercial and academic research, such as COST, EUREKA and Eurostars. Their aim is to enhance the competitiveness of European economies.

- In 2006, Poland has initiated the National Foresight Programme "Poland 2020", whose aim is to draw up a plan for the future of scientific research and development in Poland in order to accelerate social and economic growth.
- Poland has an extensive network of research centres operating as institutes of the Polish Academy of Sciences (Polska Akademia Nauk), at schools of higher education, within scientific societies, foundations, libraries and museums.
- In 2010, the modern, interactive Copernicus Science Centre (www.kopernik.org.pl)

WIELKA ORKIESTRA ŚWIĄTECZNEJ POMOCY (THE GREAT ORCHESTRA OF CHRISTMAS CHARITY)

There is one of the kind event that takes place in January called The Great Orchestra of Christmas Charity (Wielka Orkiestra Świątecznej Pomocy – WOŚP). The main objective of this nongovernmental charity organisation is to protect the health and save children's lives by providing medical equipment to public hospitals. It is run by a charismatic radio and TV journalist Jurek Owsiak. The Organisation is best known for the biggest, annual fundraising campaign in Poland: the Great Finale that takes place every January since 1993. During the spectacular one-day event, hundreds of volunteers across Poland collect money from Poles who get a heart-shaped red sticker in return for throwing a coin to a red tin. Each year funds are raised for a different purpose, e.g. early cancer diagnosis in children. This initiative increasingly enjoys support among Poles and from private companies, which participate in auctions of specially made gold hearts. In cities and towns across Poland artists give charity concerts, which are broadcast on the Polish TV.

You can find a Crooked Forest in Poland (Western Pomerania), which is a truly magical place. The pine trees in the forest are bent at a 90 degree angle.
The grove was planted in the 1930s and the reason for the strange phenomenon is unknown. It was probably caused by human intervention. Anyway, it is a great spot for a St. Valentine hike.

While in POLAND

go back in time by visiting the Rural Architecture Museum of Sanok (ethnographic open-air museum).

SHROVE TUESDAY

Ostatki - the last day of the Carnival when people party before the beginning of Lent.

THE FIRST DAY OF SPRING

The day of the spring equinox when people used to burn and/or drown an effigy of Marzanna, who was considered the embodiment of death and winter ("frost maiden"). Today school children play truant on that day (21st March).

EASTER

Wielkanoc – one of the most important public holidays in Poland, steeped in tradition. People decorate eggs (pisanki) and take them in the Easter basket to church on Holy Saturday. On Easter Sunday, when the resurrection of Christ is commemorated, Poles meet at lavish breakfasts and dinners. Many traditional dishes are prepared such as pâtés, soups typical for a particular region (e.g. żurek), yeast cake (babka wielkanocna) and specially decorated Easter short cake (mazurek). On Easter Monday (Lany Poniedzialek) people play tricks on their family and friends by pouring some water on them.

CORPUS CHRISTI

Boże Ciało – the day when religious processions are organized across Poland, led by children dressed in white, who scatter flower petals before them.

ALL SAINTS' DAY

Wszystkich Świętych – on this day people visit cemeteries to light up candles and pray for those who have passed away (1st November).

EVE OF ST. ANDREW'S DAY

Andrzejki – is a magical night of future-telling, when people pour hot wax into cold water through a key hole and try to read their fate from the shape of the congealed wax (29th November).

CHRISTMAS

Bože Narodzenie – probably the most celebrated holiday in Poland, mainly because of the Christmas Eve dinner on 24^{th} December (Wigilia). On this day families meet at tables filled with typical Christmas dishes, such as red beetroot soup served with small dumplings, pickled herring, dumplings with cabbage and mushrooms, fried carp, and for dessert: poppy seed cake and gingerbread. There are many rituals connected with this evening such as sharing a Christmas wafer before dinner, singing carols and exchanging presents, which lie hidden under the Christmas tree till the end of the meal.

NATIONAL HOLIDAYS

3RD MAY (CONSTITUTION DAY)

On this day in 1791 Poland as the first country in Europe and the second in the world proclaimed its modern codified constitution (Konstytucja 3 maja).

11TH NOVEMBER (NATIONAL INDEPENDENCE DAY)

On this day in 1918 Poland regained independence after 123 years of partitions.

OTHER HOLIDAYS

LABOUR DAY

The 1st May has been celebrated in Poland since it was established as the International Workers' Day by the Second International. After the WW II, it became a public holiday and till 1989 the central government organized 1st May marches (pochody pierwszomajowe) in all cities and towns. After this date, the tradition of marches was almost entirely stopped, except for small parades still being organized by left-wing parties.

WOMEN'S DAY

The International Women's Day (Dzień Kobiet) on 8th March is a public holiday which had been widely celebrated in Poland during the communist regime. Originally, the holiday was meant to mark women's economic, social and political achievements. Nowadays some people celebrate womanhood that day by handing women flowers and small gifts, and some organise demonstrations and rallies (manify) in order to fight for the equality of rights of men and women.

FAT THURSDAY

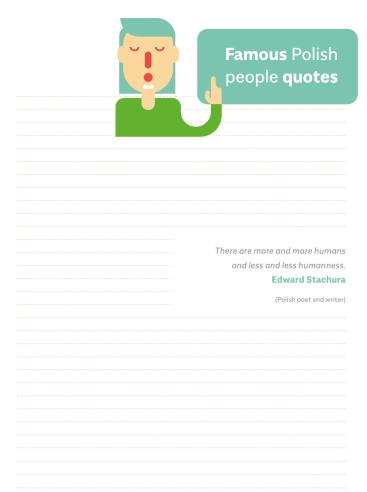

Thusty czwartek – the day of eating traditional Polish doughnuts (paczki) and Angel Wings (faworki): special sugared crispy pastry (celebrated on the last Thursday before the religious period of Lent).

Poles also celebrate the April Fool's Day (Prima Aprilis; 1st April), Child's Day (Dzień Dziecka; 1st June), St. John's Night (Sobótka; 21st/22nd June) and St. Nicholas Day (Mikołajki; 6th December).

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising was the 1943 act of Jewish resistance that arose within the Warsaw Ghetto in German-occupied Poland during World War II, and which opposed Nazi Germany's final effort to transport the remaining Ghetto population to Treblinka. The uprising started on 19 April when the Ghetto refused to surrender to the police commander SS-Brigadeführer Jürgen Stroop, who then ordered the burning of the Ghetto, block by block, ending on 16 May. A total of 13,000 Jews died, about half of them burnt alive or suffocated. German casualties are not known, but were not more than 300. It was the largest single revolt by Jews during World War II.

MARTES WTOREK

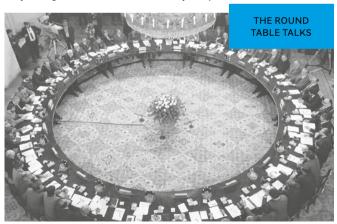

After the World War II, as a result of political frauds and manipulations, Poland became a satellite state of the Soviet Union under the name of The People's Republic of Poland (Polska Rzeczpospolita Ludowa – PRL). Although it officially preserved the status of an independent state, Stalin's interventions led to instituting a communist government in Poland with the USSR-controlled Polish United Workers' Party (PZPR) soon becoming the only legal party in the country. From 1945 till 1989 the Soviet Union steered both Poland's internal and foreign affairs and kept its Red Army troops on Polish territory. Many of the basic civil rights were confined or broken: freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of movement, the right to assemble, freedom of conscience and religion. Most highest posts in Poland were given to communists nominated by Soviet leaders. All private companies were nationalized and Poland became a centrally-planned socialist economy.

By mid 1960s the system had already brought a downturn in the economy and the counter-measures taken in 1970s only deepened the crisis. This led to massive strikes in 1980, which forced the government to concede. On 31st August protesting workers from the Gdańsk shipyard managed to sign a social contract with the government, the so-called August Agreement (Porozumienie sierpniowe), which made possible the creation of "Solidarity" (Solidarność), the first independent trade union. Supported by the majority of the population and led by charismatic Lech Wałęsa, Solidarity soon became too strong to be tolerated by the communist regime. On 13sth December 1981 the newly nominated Prime Minister, Wojciech Jaruzelski introduced martial law (stan wojenny). It brought to the nation further limitation of various civil liberties, internments, imprisonments, job losses, food rationing and other repressions. Many of these did not stop after the martial law was officially suspended in July 1983.

Although Solidarity was banned in 1982, it still remained strong as an underground organisation and represented the opposition in negotiations with the ruling party in 1989. The Round Table Talks, as they were called, focused on ways to improve the economic system and democratise the political process in Poland. The talks resulted in signing an agreement, which allowed for conducting partially free parliamentary elections in June 1989. After Solidarity received the majority vote, and an oppositionist, Tadeusz Mazowiecki, was elected the Prime Minister, the country's name was changed to the Republic of Poland (Rzeczpospolita Polska). Subsequently, the Polish constitution was amended. This was the beginning of the fall of the whole communist block and the birth of a new democracy, with a free-market economy and a strong, 38-million nation ready to fight back for its place in Europe.

As the leader of the opposition movement which forced the major change, Lech Wałęsa was acclaimed as a national hero and elected the President of the new Republic for the 1990–1995 period. Even though his presidency was criticised, he will be remembered by many generations as the man who returned freedom to Central and Eastern European societies and played a major part in ending the cold war. For the successful establishment of Solidarność, which was a breakthrough achievement on the way to liberty of millions of Europeans, he was chosen the Men of the Year by the Time Magazine in 1981 and awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1983. He has received many honorary degrees and remains a respected figure in the world of international diplomacy.

However, Wałęsa himself suggested that the change would not have been possible without the spiritual inspiration from one man: John Paul II (Karol Wojtyła – 1920–2005). He was the first Polish Pope and his election in 1978 had a great impact on the oppressed Polish nation. It gave people hope and moral strength, and ensured that Poland's difficult political situation is noticed by the world. Through his teachings and deeds John Paul II, made an enormous contribution not only to the collapse of the Iron Curtain, but also to a positive change in the lives of thousands of people from all continents. For this he was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize in 2004. Poland will always remember him as the harbinger of freedom.

POLISH HISTORY IN A NUTSHELL

The Animated History of Poland is an eight minute animated film presenting the history of Poland from the Middle Ages to the present times. Tomasz Bagiński, a BAFTA Award winner and Polish master of animation best known for "The Cathedral" (2002), an Oscarnominated short movie, is the director of the film.

POLAND IN THE EU

While the 1" May has traditionally been celebrated in Poland as the Labour Day, in 2004 this date became important for Poles for an entirely different reason. On 1" May 2004, after 10 years of preparations Poland, together with 9 other countries, joined the European Union. Since 1999, the Polish Robert Schuman Foundation has organized the Schuman Parade (Parada Schumana) as a symbol of Poland's integration with Europe. It is meant to be a cheerful celebration of the idea of a unified Europe. The Schuman Parade is usually organized on 9th May, which has been established the Europe Day by the EU.

POLISH SEASIDE

Do you happen to dream of lying on a sandy beach with your legs stretched out, sun shining on your face, your mind set on nothing but leisure? If your answer is "yes", you should definitely visit the Polish seaside! Poland has a nearly 780 km-long coastline, most of it – a beautiful beach with a clean, golden sand and breathtaking dunes rising above it.

The Baltic Sea is far less salty than the Mediterranean Sea, there are no pebbles to hurt your feet and the shore is very rarely steep. So, in the summer, when the water is warm enough to bathe, the conditions are ideal for doing all kinds of water sports: swimming, kite- and windsurfing, riding a banana boat or floating on an air mattress. You can also often see people flying kites, jogging and playing beach sports such as: beach volleyball, soft soccer, Frisbee and beach racket ball.

Besides the attractions that you can find on the beach you will also be amazed by the relaxed atmosphere of Polish seaside resorts, which offer everything you need in terms of accommodation, food and entertainment. Young tourists cannot miss the opportunity to party in one of the renowned clubs in Sopot, Międzyzdroje and Kołobrzeg, where best DJs entertain international audiences till early mornings.

When visiting the Polish seaside it is also crucial to see the amazing shifting dunes (wydmy) located near Łeba. The 44-meter-tall dunes are a part of the Slovinski National Park, which was included in the UNESCO list of World Biosphere Reserves in 1976. And as you walk along the Polish coast, look out for pieces of a brilliant golden gemstone: the Baltic amber (bursztyn). It is the biggest treasure of the Polish seaside, coveted by many as jewellery both for its beauty and alleged mysterious qualities.

POLISH LAKES

One of the favourite holiday destinations of Poles are the picturesque lakes located in northeastern Poland in the Masuria and Suwałki regions (Mazury and Suwalszczyzna). It is a perfect place not only for those craving for some peace and quiet, contact with nature and breathtaking views around them. It is also ideal for people who prefer active leisure. Whether it is swimming, windsurfing, sailing, canoeing, rowing, water skiing or skateboarding that you are interested in, you can find it all here. With over nine thousand lakes in whole Poland and an extended network of rivers and canals, the country offers an excellent combination of amazing natural environment and well-developed water sports infrastructure for both extreme sports lovers, as well as fans of calmer sporting entertainment such as fishing. Lake areas in the north of Poland are also full of forests and generally have a rural character, which makes them a dream destination for hiking, bicycle and horse riding trips.

In 2009 the uniqueness of the Polish lake landscape was appreciated by experts and the general public when the Great Masurian Lakes were qualified to the Final round of the contest New/Wonders of Nature.

Polish cuisine has over years been influenced by many cooking traditions and varies across the country. Some of the Polish specialties are:

- soups such as beetroot soup (barszcz), beet leaves soup (botwinka) or sour soup made from rye flour and mushrooms, served with potatoes, diced sausages and hard-boiled eggs (zurek);
- bigos, considered the Polish national dish, which is a traditional stew of cabbage and meat;
- smoked meats, such as the famous Polish sausage (kiełbasa), which comes in many kinds;
- various sorts of delicious dumplings (pierogi) stuffed with meat, cabbage and mushrooms, cottage cheese and potatoes or fruits;
- breaded pork cutlet (kotlet schabowy);
- pancakes (naleśniki) with sweet or spicy filling or popular potato pancakes (placki ziemniaczane);
- oscypek: cheese produced in the mountains from ewe's milk, which is the most famous Polish regional delicacy;
- delicious pastries and cakes, such as typically Polish apple pie (szarlotka), gingerbread (piernik), poppy seed cake (makowiec), donut (paczek) or cheesecake (sernik).

Traditional Polish cuisine is often described as hearty and meat-based, but Polish tables have also been laden with vegetables and fruit across the ages. This is because Poland is a perfect land for growing food and today you can still easily get fresh, high-quality products.

Dumplings

Ingredients:

- 2 cups flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 2 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 cup warm water
- soup or stew for broth
- chopped chives or parsley if desired for garnish

Directions:

Combine flour, salt and baking powder. Add oil and water and mix until smooth. Add a bit more water until dumplings are soft and not at all dry.

Bring broth to a boil and add dumplings by spoonful. Reduce heat and cook dumplings 4-5 minutes. (Do in batches if you are using a small pan.)

Serve dumplings in broth garnished with chopped chives as desired.

Restaurants in Poland serve all types of international cuisine nowadays and there is plenty to satisfy vegetarian tastes, but many specialize in typical Polish food, offering traditional and regional dishes in rustic-style interiors.

Did you know

Brits have got their Mini that enjoys the status of a cult car. Poles keep up with them and they have got their own - the Maluch. Actually, its proper name is the Fiat 126p, but you can hardly meet anyone who uses that name. The Maluch is simply the Maluch - meaning "a small one", full stop. And it is even more peculiar than the Mini. They started making it back in 1973 and finished the production in 2000. During the 27 years, this small, loud and shaky "car" earned the reputation of a cult car among many generations. With its 0.6l engine and 24 bhp it was capable of carrying whole families! Hardly anyone ever really paid attention to the fact that it was the size of a matchbox.

Polish belongs to West-Slavic group of the Indo-European family of languages. It is classified as an inflected and synthetic system. As an individual language, Polish evolved in the 10th century and played an important role in the establishment and development of the Polish state. Until the 14th century, Polish existed only in the form of several regional spoken variations. As a literary, superregional language, Polish was distinguished in the 15th and 16th centuries, which is demonstrated by the extensive collection of Renaissance literary works.

The number of people speaking Polish as their mother tongue exceeds 45 million, of which 38 million live in Poland. Large groups of Poles and ethnic Poles have been living outside Poland for many generations, mainly in the USA, Canada, Australia, Germany, UK, France, Belarus, Kazakhstan, Lithuania and Ukraine. Today, Polish is gaining popularity as a foreign language taught at language schools and in academic centres across Poland and worldwide.

Poland was among 29 countries which signed the Bologna Declaration in 1999. Since then, many legislative changes have been introduced to adjust the Polish higher education system to the Bologna Process action lines. "Bologna tools" such as the three cycle study system, ECTS and the Diploma Supplement are now legally binding for all Polish HEIs. Currently, Poland is working towards the full implementation of the Polish Qualifications Framework.

Students in Poland may study either at university-type institutions or at non-university higher education schools (which may not award the doctoral degree). Both types of HEIs offer study programmes in various academic disciplines. Students enrolled at Polish higher education institutions can choose between full-time and part-time studies. Full time is the standard mode and is usually free of charge in state higher education institutions. The courses may take the form of lectures, practical classes, workshops, seminars, laboratory classes and practical placements.

Higher education institutions in Poland offer the following educational possibilities:

FIRST-CYCLE PROGRAMMES

leading to the professional title of licencjat (Bachelor type), which last 3 to 4 years, and to the professional title of inżynier ("engineer" – Bachelor degree), which last 3.5 to 4 years.

SECOND-CYCLE PROGRAMMES

lasting 1.5 to 2.5 years and leading to the professional title of magister or an equivalent degree (Master's degree), accessible for graduates of first-cycle studies.

LONG-CYCLE PROGRAMMES

(or one-tier degrees) lasting 4.5 to 6 years and leading to the professional title of magister or an equivalent degree (Master' degree).

THIRD-CYCLE PROGRAMMES are doctoral programmes provided by university-type schools as well as some research institutions (principally the Polish Academy of Sciences).

EXAMS AND ASSESSMENT

February is the month when the first examination session (sesja) takes place. It usually starts in late January after the classes finish and lasts for two or three weeks, during which students have to take written and oral exams (egzaminy). Some teachers agree to organize additional examinations for volunteers before the official examination period begins (zerówki) so that they better manage their learning and review.

Between the first session and the summer semester students have a two-week winter break. The summer semester continues until late June, which is the time when the second examination session takes place. The second examination session is usually more difficult because many examinations cover material from two semesters. In the case of a failure students can resit exams in September.

In order to complete a semester each student has to obtain at least pass marks for all assessments within the semester, regardless of their form (including projects, integrated placements etc.). The most often used assessment scale envisages for the following grades: very good (5), good plus (4+ or 4.5), good (4), satisfactory plus (3+ or 3.5), satisfactory (3), fail (2) (for detailed information on the grading scale at your school, check its current ECTS course catalogue). If someone fails at an exam, they have to retake it during the repeat examination period (sesja poprawkowa) right at the beginning of the summer semester.

STUDENTS FROM EU COUNTRIES

If you are an EU/EEA student, you only need your ID document (e.g. identity card or passport) to enter Poland. If you plan to stay longer than three months, you need to register at the regional administration office (urząd wojewódzki). There you will need to submit required documents and in return you will receive a paper confirming your right of residence in Poland. One of the necessary preconditions for obtaining the right of residence is your health insurance (e.g. the European Health Insurance Card).

STUDENTS FROM NON-EU COUNTRIES

If you come from a non-EU/EEA country, you should check with your local Polish consulate what documents (passport, visa etc.) you will need before you head Poland. If you obtain a visa, you will not need to register your stay upon your arrival.

ERASMUS STUDENTS IN POLAND

Since 1998, Poland has also been a host country for students participating in the Erasmus program. The annual number of foreign students in Poland has rapidly been growing for the last few years to reach nearly 15,000 in 2015/2016. Higher education institutions hosting foreign students generally offer courses of Polish language and culture and courses taught in foreign languages, mainly English. For a list of study programmes available in foreign languages see: www.go-poland.pl, www.go-poland.pl, www.go-poland.pl, <a href="https://www.studyinpoland.pl.

STUDENT ORGANISATIONS

There are many student organizations in Poland, some operating nation-wide, some locally, other at particular universities. These may be academic sports and tourist organizations, student corporations and science clubs. As an international student, you might be interested in visiting websites of: ESN, AEGEE, AIESEC, the Students' Parliament of the Republic of Poland (Parlament Studentów Rzeczypospolitej Polskiej) and the National Representation of Doctoral Students (Krajowa Representacja Doktorantów).

Erasmus Student Network (ESN) Poland is a non-profit student organization. Its activities are carried out by 38 sections in all academic centers in Poland. Their goal is to support and develop international student exchange programs with the network's motto: "Students helping students". They represent institutional interests of students, cooperate with the National Agency and implement national projects such as Discover Europe or ESNOLYMPICS. If you want to know more about ESN Poland, check their website at www.esn.pl or like their fanpage: ESNPoland on Facebook.
